State Librarian

Connecticut State Library

Hartford, December 17, 1915

THE Connecticut State Library, like practically all the State Libraries of the older states, had its foundation in the miscellaneous collection of books which had gradually accumulated in the offices of the several state officials from the beginning. These volumes consisted principally of books purchased to meet temporary official necessities, or which had been presented by sister states, foreign governments, or individuals. Until they had been gathered together, arranged and some one made responsible for their completeness and safety, they were of very little service to the public.

In May, 1854, the General Assembly provided for the appointment of a State Librarian and the miscellaneous collection of books belonging to the state which had been accumulating in the office of the Secretary of State were placed in the custody of this new official. During the sixty years which have elapsed since 1854, Connecticut has had but three State Librarians; viz.: Dr. J. Hammond Trumbull, who served one year when he resigned; Dr. Charles J. Hoadly, who served from September, 1855, until his death, October, 1900, a period of forty-five years, and the present State Librarian, who came to the State Library in August, 1898, as assistant and was appointed State Librarian November 28, 1900.

From its rooms in the old State House, now City Hall, the Library was moved to larger and more convenient quarters in the new Capitol in 1878, where it remained until the completion of its new home in our State Library and Supreme Court Building, to which it transferred its activities November 28, 1910.

The Connecticut State Library is especially fortunate, being central in its location, housed in a building substantially built, beautiful in its architecture, convenient in its arrangement, harmonious in its decorations and homelike. It is, to paraphrase the words of another, a library by the people, of the people, and for the people.

To the judge and attorney it is the Law Library of the State, commendably complete in its several lines.

To the legislator and man of public affairs it is a Legislative Reference Library, in which he can, at his own convenience and in his own way, study easily, intelligently and fully, not only the trend of legislation both at home and abroad and learn something of the reasons for and against the several movements, but he can also ascertain there the contents and daily status of each bill in his own legislature.

To the town clerk and judge of probate it is a possible, convenient, desirable and safe depository for files and papers not in current use, and a source of intelligent assistance, which is theirs for the asking, in matters pertaining to binding, repairing, indexing and caring for these records which must be retained in their several offices.

To the state officer and commissioner, the State Library is the place where he can find at any time the reports of his own department and similar departments in other states, and a place where he can deposit any special reports, records or other material which may come to him, or which he may care to have in a place of safety, and at all reasonable times have accessible to him and to those who have a right to use them.

To the selectman and town treasurer the State Library is the place where they are confident they can find a commendably complete file of the financial reports of their own towns and neighboring towns, which are so often lacking at home.

To the civil engineer and surveyor the State Library is not only a source of supply of topographical maps of the State as it is today, but the depository of the official copy of the drawings and specifications for all dams and waterways approved by the State Board of Civil Engineers.

and the repository of records showing the layout of many counties, towns, school districts, ecclesiastical societies, highways, etc., as they now are or used to be.

To the members of the Connecticut Geological and Natural History Survey and those interested along these lines, the State Library is the distributing and exchange agency for the several publications of the Commission.

To the minister of our older churches the State Library is a mine of wealth concerning many things which relate to the life and activities of the church in the days of our fathers.

To the genealogist and descendants of Colonial and Revolutionary ancestry our large collection of muster-rolls, pay-rolls, lists, receipts and miscellaneous manuscripts, together with our genealogies and local histories, is the one department thought of.

To the members of the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames the Connecticut State Library is the home of that unique collection of manuscript histories relating to the early homes of our fathers in Connecticut, which are being compiled by this society.

The student of political economy and government is attracted by our large collection of public documents of our own state, the sister states, and United States, arranged in long series, easily accessible.

The inventor and prospective patentee thinks only of our long sets of patent reports and certified copies of specifications and drawings of patents, always at his service.

The pupils of our public schools think of the State Library as the home of the old Charter, the Stuart portrait of Washington, the portraits of our several governors, and the place where they can see so many things of interest to them connected with the history of our own State and the general government.

The numismatist has formed his idea of our State Library through that remarkable collection of coins, currency, medals, tokens and associated books, recently presented to the State by one of her sons, the late Joseph C. Mitchelson of Tariffville.

To the tourist and professional traveler the Connecticut State Library is simply a beautiful, new building, which having been planned from the inside out as well as from the outside in, and having been built upon honor and for time, is acknowledged to be a model of its kind.

To the several state libraries of our own country and governmental libraries of Europe the Connecticut State Library is looked upon as the exchange medium with the State of Connecticut, through which they receive promptly the official publications of the State, and in which may be found the several official publications sent in return.

To the sons and daughters of Connecticut, who have inherited or accumulated manuscripts and records which they have held almost sacred, the Connecticut State Library is regarded as a most fitting depository for these private collections of official and semi-official papers, which have to do with the early life and activities of the State and its several families.

To the librarian and his staff the Connecticut State Library is a group of departments, housed in a model building, with interested and competent assistants, whose aim and purpose is to serve intelligently, promptly, and courteously not only the inquirers of our own generation but those which are to follow.

The above, I imagine, are some of the ideas which have become clustered about the name of the "Connecticut State Library," and may we not say that all of them are right, simply looking at the Library from their own point of view, and thinking along the lines in which they are especially interested.

FEBRUARY 15, 1918

HARTFORD
PUBLISHED BY THE CENSUS

CONNECTICUT STATE LIBRARY,

HARTFORD, Mar. 15, 1918.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY,

MARCUS H. HOUComb,

GOVERNOR.

Sir:

On March 31, 1917, your Special Assistants in the Connecticut State Military Census made a report to you stating the origin, planning, progress and development of our State Military Census which was the first State Military Census to have been taken by any state in connection with the present great conflict.

As provided by Chapter 136 of the Public Acts of 1917, entitled "An Act amending an Act providing for a Census and Inventory of the Resources of the State," I have the honor to submit herewith a report of the Connecticut State Military Census upon the Nurses and Nursing Resources of the State as tabulated from the original returns on file in this department on February 15, 1918.

It is a pleasure to here acknowledge the assistance of all those who have cooperated in gathering, compiling, and making available the following data relating to the Nurses and Nursing Resources of our State. My special thanks are due to Mr. Richard A. Perry, now engaged in over-sea service, and Miss R. Inde Albough, R. N., Secretary of the Connecticut State Board of Examination and Registration of Nurses, both enthusiastic volunteers in the work of our State census.

Respectfully submitted,

Geo. S. Godard

State Librarian

REPORT ON MILITARY CENSUS OF THE NURSES AND OF THE NURSING RESOURCES OF CONNECTICUT, TO FEBRUARY 15, 1918

PURPOSE

The original purpose of this census, was to make available for immediate response, and place at the command of the State, in large numbers, the skill and support of those nurses best qualified to assist in handling any calamity, or emergency, involving life and health, that might occur in our industrial, and economic centers during a period of anticipation of, and preparation for war. The necessity for making provision to meet such exigencies was recognized by His Excellency, Governor Marcus H. Holcomb, in the provision for the Connecticut State Military Census of man power, and materials, approved February 20, 1917, and the first division of this census of nurses was compiled by, and described to His Excellency by his "Special Assistants in the Military Census" in a special report dated March 31, 1917.

A summary of this report shows that nearly one thousand nurses responded, and were made available to the State, by listing them in a card index, with telephone calls, and grouping them in 15 zones arranged around the cities and large towns, where industries, and hospitals are located. When these files were transferred to the State Library, and placed in charge of the Librarian, the necessary work of keeping the material available for immediate use was continued. In September, 1917, the National Council of Defense, through its Committee on Nursing, to the State Organization of Nurses, asked for a complete survey of all the nursing resources, by states. When this request came to the Connecticut nurses, the work was 50% complete, and as our Governor had called into action the State Board of Examination and Registration of Nurses, in outlining the methods for, and to assist in compiling the original census, then only a few months old, the nurses were indeed fortunate to secure the further support and co-operation of the State, through the Librarian, and was thus enabled to proceed, without delay, and without having to do experimental work, under expert direction, and with clerical assistance and equipment already organized.

METHODS

Printed forms, for all organizations and institutions with nursing service were furnished by the American Nurses' Association, groups of results of which will be brought out later in this report, but all printed forms, such as history blanks, index cards, and a code for distinguishing the various departments of the nursing activities, and its availability for service, which was originated for this purpose by the department of the Census Bureau, were used, rather than those forms suggested by the American Nurses' Association, so as not to disturb the existing files, and to so combine the material already obtained with that to be acquired, as to present a map, not alone of the nursing situation of the State, but of its availability for service. The first work, therefore, was to complete the field already invaded, as our files contained few, but registered nurses, and the search in the field was for nurses, registered, graduate nurses not registered, pupil and practical nurses.

A systematic canvas of the State was necessary, small maps were used, and the State laid out in 25 districts, in which were grouped the several adjacent townships, these districts were tabulated, using the letters of the alphabet as a key to locate them. A chairman for a voluntary committee to make the canvas was then found for each district, and an outline for the work including a photostat copy of the names of all nurses of a prescribed district already in the files. A form letter of instructions, covering the formality of committee, data required for a mailing list, and suggestions for compiling lists under their separate divisions, were mailed to the chairman. When this survey was completed, and a list of the names and addresses returned to the Military Census Bureau, the blanks required for classified lists were mailed by the Census Bureau, with stamped return envelope, enclosed to each individual.

A mailing list of organizations and institutions of the State was compiled from such available resources at our command, in the State Library, which furnished us not only names, but in many instances recent statistics. The information obtained concerning the first division of this group, is shown in the following summary, and is a direct result of the questionnaires returned by the institutions represented.

PRACTICAL NURSES

In this class we have grouped for convenience the practical nurses, male and female; trained attendants employed, and in training, ranging to the age of 55 years:

Total number, . . . . . 1277

Of this number, 556 have offered their services for supplementary nursing work in our Civil Hospitals, and Public Health Organizations.

SUMMARY

Numbers of persons engaged in nursing service in Connecticut according to class of service:

Graduate Nurses . . . . . 2280

Registered . . . . . 1386

Not Registered . . . . . 337

Unclassified Nurses . . . . . 529

Registered . . . . . 209

Not Registered . . . . . 320*

Total . . . . . 2280

*Among the unclassified number are grouped married, retired, and the physically disabled nurses of both classes.

AVAILABILITY

As the purpose of the Connecticut State Military Census was not only to ascertain the resources of the State, but also to ascertain their availability, the questionnaire framed for the Census of Nurses, and the code adopted, gives the following results:

Class A — Graduate nurses who will respond to a call for service anywhere.....	1052
Class B — Graduate nurses willing to respond in State only.....	326
Class C — Not available (married, retired and physically disabled).....	796
Class D — Will serve outside State only.....	42
Non residents.....	64
Total.....	2280

Of the total number of pupil nurses in training, approximately three-quarters of the number indicated their willingness to respond for service on completion of training.

Of the total number of practical nurses enrolled, approximately 500 would be available for supplementary service in our civil hospitals and public health organization, if a demand came for the release of senior pupil nurses.

RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE

229 registered nurses were enrolled for service on January 1, 1918. Since that date about 125 applications have been filed, and are in process of enrollment, many of which have already been called to active service. A careful analysis of the situation convinces us that we can so increase our enrollment, as to give to the National Red Cross Nursing Service at least 500 of our best qualified nurses, without crippling the efficiency of any one of our institutions, and organizations, as it is the policy of our local Red Cross nursing committees to draw extensively on the recent graduates in the private duty field.

SYSTEM OF FILING AND CODE

The system used in filing the returns and correspondence, and the code used to tabulate the results were evolved by Richard A. Perry who was an enthusiastic volunteer in the work of the Census until his departure in December, for over-sea service.

All names are arranged alphabetically and by towns.

1ST ALPHABETICAL. — All names are indexed in alphabetical order, on cards containing name, address and code number and letter.

2ND TOWNS — A complete history card is drawn from the census blanks filled out and signed by each individual concerned, and filed in alphabetical order in the towns in which they reside. The same code number and letter serves as a triple tracer.

A — indicates availability for service in, or outside, the State.

B — indicates availability for service in State only.

- C - indicates non-availability.
- D - indicates availability for service outside the State only.
- E - indicates non-residents.

PUPIL NURSES

The same system exists in the files of the pupil nurses, with the following modifications:

- F - is used to indicate pupil, hence
- FA - indicates availability for service, in and outside the State.
- FB - indicates availability for service in State only.
- FC - indicates non-availability.

And in this instance an alphabetical file, similar to that described for graduate nurses is used, but the history file is arranged, and indexed under the name of the hospital in which the subject is training, rather than in towns. Code letters, and numbers used in triple form.

PRACTICAL NURSES

The same system is followed in the practical nurses files -- the letter G being the key.

- G is used to indicate a Practical Nurse.
- GA indicates availability for service anywhere.
- GB indicates availability for service in State only.
- GC indicates not available.

RED CROSS NURSES

A system of "flags or signals" placed at the center of top of card, yellow in color, indicates the nurses called for service. "Red" right of center indicates nurses enrolled for service, both alphabetical and town files are flagged.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

A cross file is used -- arranged in towns, with the various departments of service grouped with organization indicated on cards of nurses employed.

CONCLUSION

The material accumulated shows the approximate relative position of the nursing resources of the State to the civilian population, and while the percentages appear inadequate to the demands of the period, our figures compare very favorably with reports at present available from other States. As Connecticut was the first State in the Union to acquire a census of these resources, and as near as we can determine, the first State to complete this work, no final comparative figures have been available. We have, however, through our professional agencies, been able to keep in touch with the progress in other states, and obtain sufficient data to support our claims. The co-operation of the Nursing Organizations with the State in the accomplishment of this work, places the statistics obtained in their proper place in our State Resources, and emphasizes not only our professional qualifications but our moral and professional obligations, and desire to support and co-operate with our State and Nation in the protection of the life and health of the people.

The Nursing Organizations of Connecticut, therefore, are to be congratulated for grasping this opportunity to lend their moral and financial support to the work we have aided our State in accomplishing, and in making accessible to all agencies much data that can be used for the development of this department as a whole, or its various divisions of service, to meet the demands of the war.

As the one chosen to represent the nursing profession in this work, I can assure the State that we not only realize this to be our function, but our privilege, and our determination.

In order that the nursing resources of the State may be immediately available, so long as the nation or state may have occasion to call for the same, our files are being added to and corrected daily.

Respectfully submitted,

R. INDE ALBAUGH, R. N.,

My dear Mr. Noe:

Please accept my thanks for your favors of 23rd inst. covering the special war medal struck by the Society and the kindly words relating to your visit here at the Connecticut State Library.

I can only say that it was a pleasure for me to show you and Mr. Severance something of the work we are endeavoring to do along our own lines and in our own way. We have in no case felt bound down or hampered by the rules and customs of others. Possibly this was due to our ignorance along these lines urged on by a somewhat independent spirit in the work.

- I may state, however, that much of what we have accomplished has been made easier and better through the suggestions received from the many visitors to whom it has been my privilege to show what we are doing and have the advantage and opportunity of consulting with them.

I note your request concerning associate members.

Hoping it may be my pleasure to welcome you here again at your convenience, I remain Yours of the 18th inst. received. The package of duplicate files of the Numismatist, with other items, was sent to you with the hope that either you could use them or they could be used in connection with the work of your society. They were all duplicates of what we had, and as most of them came from Mr. Mitchelson, and he was a member of the American Numismatic Society, it seemed to me that the proper thing to do was to send them to you. In return, from time to time, you may be able to send us various items which we need.

Dear Mr. Godard:-

Thank you for calling my attention to the error with regard to the dues for the Joseph H. Hutchinson Collection. The mistake was caused by having two unconnected cross reference cards. Your payment was credited on one and not on the other. I am very sorry the mistake occurred.

Very sincerely yours,

Secretary.

Dear Mr. Baird:

I am sorry that you cannot be with us on the 17th.

Thank you very much for your invitation and the suggestion that our Society convene at the same time and at the Connecticut State Library. I do not at present see how this could be brought about, but this is no time when I shall take any of the form of my mind and there is no talking what any result your invitation suggest.

If I succeed in getting to Boston in the near future - that is, within the coming winter, I shall want to stop at Hartford to get some more of the inspiration I found there on my previous visit.

Very sincerely yours,

My dear Mr. Noe:

Let me thank you for the splendid time you gave me yesterday when I visited your museum, and went through hurriedly looked over some of your latest exhibits, and then later together we had the most interesting and instructive time we had in the rooms of the Numismatic Society, and in the "Museum of the American Indian." I certainly appreciated the personally conducted tour under your direction, and the splendid courtesies extended by Mr. Dodge. It was a great joy as well as a great source of instruction to have been able to make these trips under such auspicious conditions. Even though it was raining and cold without, within everything was warm and cheery. I shall hope sometime to have the pleasure of returning this favor, at least in part, when you come to Hartford.

I would like of course to be present at the meeting of the Numismatic Society next Saturday afternoon, but feel I will be unable, even in spirit.

Dear Mr. Godard:-

I was glad to have your letter of yesterday because the day with you here was so pleasant for me too.

May I ask you to look up to see whether the voucher ever was passed for one silver and one bronze loan medal. You will remember that you ordered copies in silver and bronze for your own use as well. I do not find that we ever sent a notification to cover these, and possibly that is the reason we have no record of having received a cheque. Will you kindly look into this matter at your convenience.

Dear Mr. Godard:-

Our records seem to show that we have not received remittance for one bronze Deak medal sent you personally and for a silver and bronze Deak medal sent to the Michelson Collection.

We received a remittance for fifteen dollars on June 1st, and assume that this was for the Chate medals. Are we mistaken, and should this have been credited to the Deak medals?

I am sorry to bother you about such matters but we have carefully checked up our records which appear to indicate the condition described above.
